"The best way out is always through." Robert Frost

Well I am not quite sure where to begin...and truthfully, I'm not sure where it will all end. I do know that these challenging times have revealed some things to me that give me hope for a bright future. One of these is how people have found plants during this pandemic. It is no mystery that I have always loved plants, they are so fascinating and non-judgmental. I am glad to see how people are finding comfort in the simple act of growing plants. Whether it is seeds to start a garden, plants for uplifting blooms or green plants for creating landscapes both outside and in the home...it is connecting us to the earth in incredibly positive ways.

Being raised in a multi-generational farming family I have always been taught that you reap what you sow and for that reason we are genuinely optimistic. To plant a seed, a tree, or a crop, you are sowing optimism. The hope that your efforts will provide value and joy in the future is not something that should get lost in these times. While we all hope for quick resolution, the truth reveals that only through group effort in long term solutions will we arrive at a worthy future for generations to come. Good things take time and effort...

The one thing that has certainly gotten me and I am sure many of you though these times is family. I know during those early days of shutdown, my family pulled together and we worked long days to keep the crops alive for the spring, the plants really had no idea what was going on. I consider our staff family too. Once we opened back up, they came in and pulled together and helped rebuild what was lost- anxious times but they were and are amazing! It takes a team to make the dream work...

So, as we head into the upcoming holidays, we give thanks for the place of family in our lives and how we really are all one big family...looking out for each other's well-being. It is also a time of cheer and comfort, both of which is on display at Bayport Flower Houses. Our elves are hard at work creating memorable designs, displaying the most wonderful gifts, and growing gorgeous plants for the upcoming holidays. While some of the events and classes we normally host are not happening this year, we still are focused on creating a wonderland here at Bayport Flower Houses. So, take some time and stop in (with a mask) and relax and enjoy our little piece of paradise...

Be well and see you soon,
Karl

Everyone LOVES beautiful blooming Amaryllis & Snowy Paperwhites during the Winter Months!

Exotic and traditional, these beautiful bloomers make the perfect gift for yourself and others!

And Forcing Paperwhites Indoors is a fun & great way to connect with nature during the Winter

- (1). Select a bowl, dish or container at least 3-4" deep.
- (2). Fill the container 3/4 with pebbles
- (3). Set as many bulbs as you can (it is okay if they touch each other), with the pointed ends up, on top of the pebbles and add a bit more pebbles on top to just below the rim of the container but leaving the tips of the bulbs exposed.
- (4). Fill the container with water until just underneath the bottom of the bulbs (do not let the water touch the bulbs since this may cause them to start rotting) and maintain this level throughout the growing- and blooming-period.
- (5). Place your container in spot with plenty of indirect light (not direct sunlight) and watch them grow.

Our Garlands and Bunched Greens help you to decorate with ease.

POINSETTIAS Home-Grown For the Holidays

Our Home-Grown Poinsettias are certainly the “Bell of The Ball” during the Holiday Season. Large, bold colored petals frame the tiny yellow flower at the center of each stem. Native to warmer Southern climates, the Poinsettia is now grown to grace our Northern homes! And through the years, plant breeders have developed colors that amaze even the veteran grower. The Princettia line of Poinsettias is a perfect example, with dramatic Pink and snow-like White, it makes for a beautiful accent for home decorating.

And, with good care, a poinsettia can maintain its beauty for much longer than the Christmas season. Since poinsettia plants are from the south, they prefer surroundings that simulate that type of environment such as a well-lit window. East-facing windows are best so that they can catch the morning’s glow and bask in the afternoon’s shade. Make sure that no part of your plant touches the window pane, as this may harm the poinsettia.

How often do you water a poinsettia? You should water your poinsettia whenever you feel the soil is dry or you see that some of the leaves are wilting. The key is to let the water drain out the bottom, and make sure that your poinsettia is not sitting in water.

To maintain your poinsettia blooms, keep temperatures between 65 and 75 degrees Fahrenheit. Make sure to protect them from dramatic temperature drops as this will cause their leaves to prematurely wilt.

Centerpieces for Every Table,
Every Occassion!

Hand-crafted floral centerpieces have graced our homes and lives since recorded history.

Ancient Roman dining tables were adorned with decorative foliage while Aristocratic tables during the Middle Ages were graced with elaborate natural scenes. Modern tables now include a mixture of both, gorgeous flowers, natural elements and whimsical features.

Whatever your style, the talented Design Staff at Bayport Flower Houses’ will create a masterpiece for all the enjoy.

Flower Centerpieces also make fantastic gifts during the Holidays. We have delivery available 7 days a week for your convenience.

Our Fresh Evergreen Arrangements are unique and one a kind!
